

Sung Choe, M.D.

Director of Anesthesiology, St. Louis

Certifications

- Diplomate, The American Board of Anesthesiology
- Advanced Cardiac Life Support

Professional committees/ organizations

- American Society of Anesthesiologists
- Missouri Society of Anesthesiologists

Education

- Medical degree, University of Wisconsin
- Residency, University of California, Naval Medical Center San Diego

Experience

As a teenager, Dr. Choe was intrigued by how organisms function. His interest in learning how things work eventually led him to pursue a career in the medical field. After college, Dr. Choe chose to specialize in the area of anesthesia. Throughout his tenured career, he has continually sought ways to be medically innovative while delivering the highest quality of patient-centered care.

As an anesthesiologist, Dr. Choe often receives many questions from patients — some are afraid to undergo anesthesia while others are anxious about their upcoming procedures. Dr. Choe takes the time to answer each question patients ask and ensures they are as comfortable as possible during their procedure.

Dr. Choe seeks to leave a positive impression on all of his patients. Some of his proudest moments include receiving a kind note from a former patient, thanking Dr. Choe for the excellent care he provided.